To Whom It May Concern:

Bob Coleman has been associated with the Columbia Pike Chiropractic Center since 1981 practicing stress management and massage therapy. Bob is a valuable asset to the clinic because of his wide range of interests and experiences. His communication skills are important in eliciting information from patients that have helped us to treat their conditions even though that information has been at times out side of the realm of the massage modality.

I have also the good fortune to have Bob at the clinic because of his willingness to lend his talents to help with tasks that are not related to his assigned capacity at the clinic. His common sense, knowledge of business, design and carpentry have helped me to make decisions in many areas of the business and his creative skills have resulted in his making some additions to the running and ambience here.

Another very important factor are Bob's credibility and reliability. He practices what he preaches and as a result is in outstanding condition and health which has been relayed to his patients and us here at the clinic. The number of days he has missed in the past ten years due to personal needs, sickness and injury have been infintessimally small.

Our ten years together have been fruitful and productive and I will miss his presence and input here.

Sincerely,

Steven M. Kulawy, D.C., P.C.
